Assessment

Teachers can check for success by

- Ask students, “How will the man go to the hospital?” and “The man asks for help. What is his problem?” and “Describe the first step in the directions to the hospital” and “What is the next step?” and “What can the man look for to help him find the hospital?”
- Have students draw the directions on paper or on a map you give them as they listen to the directions.

Directions | Lost

How will the man go to the hospital?

Man: Excuse me, ma’am. I am lost.

Woman: Oh, okay. Where do you want to go?

Man: I am going to the hospital.

Woman: No problem. I can give you directions.

Man: You can? Oh, good.

Woman: Okay... first, you want to stay on this street for three blocks.

Man: Okay... so... I go straight for three blocks.

Woman: Yes, and then you turn right.

Man: So, I will turn right.

Woman: Yes. Then, go.... Hmmmm.... Four blocks.

Man: Go four blocks... okay...

Woman: And you will see the hospital on your left.

Man: Is there a landmark near the hospital that I can look for?

Woman: Yes. You will see a tall tree right before the hospital.

Man: Okay. Thank you for the directions, ma'am!
